Cardinal Coaching Staff

BOB HOLLWAY, Head Coach

Looking to reverse last season's disappointing record and return the Cardinals to winning ways, Bob Hollway begins his second campaign as head coach of the Big Red. "We think we're a better team than we showed last season," he comments, "but it is up to us to prove that on the field in a very tough division. Last year was the first time together for the players and a new head coach, and I think the experience everyone gained will enable us to start quickly this year. We know there is much to be done, but we feel that the Cardinals will be a better football team in 1972."

Hollway joined the Cardinals after four seasons as an assistant with the Minnesota Vikings, two in charge of the defensive line and two as architect of the overall defense. During his tenure, the Vikings won three division crowns and an NFL championship.

Born in Ann Arbor, Mich., on Jan. 29, 1926, Hollway comes from a deep and solid athletic background. His father, now retired, was a high school coach in Ann Arbor for many years and the community prep football field has been named in his honor.

"My dad was a great influence on my sister and me," Hollway says, "and through his position as a football coach, sports always was a prime topic at home. My sister was a physical education major, just as I was, and she taught physical education at the University of California for several years."

The 6-foot, 3-inch Hollway was a football star at Ann Arbor High, though his father already had retired when Hollway entered, and he then served in the Marines at the end of World War II, spending a year in the Pacific and playing service football in Japan.

Hollway enrolled at the University of Michigan in 1946, explaining with a smile, "Since my Dad had gone to school there, and since I grew up in Ann Arbor, there never was much question of where I would go to college." He was a three-year varsity end for the Wolverines, playing with a national championship team and in the Rose Bowl.

Oddly, Hollway has lived or worked only in states beginning with the letter "M," a pattern which continued as he began his coaching career in 1951 as a football assistant at the University of Maine. After two seasons there, he moved to Eastern Michigan as head basketball coach and assistant football coach. He returned to his alma mater in 1954 and was part of the football staff for 12 seasons.

Hollway dropped out of coaching in 1966 but stayed close to the game as a play-by-play radio announcer for the Wolverines and, a year later, he went back to his first love when Bud Grant became head coach of the Minnesota Vikings.

"Bud and I played against each other when he was at Minnesota and I was at Michigan," Hollway recalls, "and we got to be good friends while he was coaching in Canada. The opportunity to get into professional football with an old friend and fine coach like Bud was just too much to pass up."

Hollway and his wife, the former Colleen Kennedy, live in a St. Louis suburb and are the parents of six children, Mike, 19, a junior and member of the swim team at Michigan; Ann, 17, a freshman at the University of Missouri; Kathleen, 16; Bob, 15; Bruce, 13; and Bill, 11.

HOLLWAY

DRULIS

CARPENTER

CHUCK DRULIS, Assistant Coach

Chuck Drulis will add to his own National Football League record this season when he begins his 21st NFL campaign as a coach, his 16th with the Big Red. No one in the league has compiled more years of consecutive service as player and coach (since 1945) than the dean of the Cardinal staff.

Among active coaches, only Weeb Ewbank (since 1949) has more consecutive years than Drulis, who this season will be in charge of the overall defense and will work with the linebackers.

A native of Girardville, Pa., Drulis started coaching with Green Bay in 1951 after a fine career with the Chicago Bears. An all-East selection at Temple, he joined the Bears in 1942 and played with the NFL's last unbeaten, untied team as a rookie. He then served in the Army during World War II before rejoining the Bears in 1945.

Drulis played four more seasons with the Bears, twice being named all-pro. He moved to Green Bay in 1949 for his final two seasons, the last as a player-coach. He became a full-time coach in 1951, moved to Philadelphia in 1954 and joined the Cardinals in 1956, remaining under head coaches Ray Richards, Pop Ivy, Wally Lemm, Charley Winner and Bob Hollway. He is credited with devising the safety blitz, first used by the Big Red in 1960 and made famous by Larry Wilson in 1961.

Drulis and his wife, Dale, are St. Louis residents and the parents of two sons, Chuck, Jr., and Kerry, both fine football players at and graduates of Washington University in St. Louis. Mrs. Drulis, a noted artist, designed and executed the facade for the Pro Football Hall of Fame among her many accomplishments.

LEW CARPENTER, Assistant Coach

Moving into his second season as the Big Red's offensive coordinator and receiver coach is Lew Carpenter, who also holds claim to one section of the National Football League record book. The heading is, "most different championship teams played on," and the figure is "3"—Detroit, 1953-54; Cleveland, 1957; Green Bay, 1961-62.

Born in Hayti, Mo., Carpenter and his family moved to Arkansas and he and his brother, Preston, were both all-conference standouts at the University of

LEACH

Arkansas. Lew played fullback, quarterback, end, defensive middle guard and linebacker in college, and was an offensive and defensive back and receiver in the NFL. He also was a college baseball standout and had a brief fling in the Baseball Cardinals' organization in 1953 before turning to football.

Drafted by the Lions, Carpenter began as a defensive back, scoring a touchdown on an interception in his first NFL game. He played on a pair of championship clubs under Buddy Parker at Detroit, then was traded to Cleveland and re-united with his brother for a title in 1957 under Paul Brown, and joined the Packers and Vince Lombardi in 1959.

Carpenter was a coach with the Minnesota Vikings in 1964-66, the Atlanta Falcons in 1967-68 and the Washington Redskins in 1969-70. He and his wife, Ann, are the parents of four children, Cheryl, 15, Cathy, 13, Lisa, 9, and Becky, 6.

BILL AUSTIN, Assistant Coach

A National Football League coach since 1959 and a head coach at both Pittsburgh and Washington, Bill Austin gives the Big Red another experienced coaching hand. Austin will be in charge of the offensive line and the running game in his first season with the Cardinals.

Born in San Pedro, Calif., Austin was a standout tackle at Oregon State University, a 13th-round draft choice of the New York Giants and a starting guard (at 218 pounds) as a Giant rookie in 1949. He was a regular with the Giants through 1957, missing two years because of Army service, and was an all-pro when the late Vince Lombardi first became an assistant coach at New York in 1954.

In 1958, Austin was an assistant coach at Wichita State University, but a year later became an original member of Lombardi's Green Bay Packer staff. He joined Los Angeles in 1965, then moved to Pittsburgh as head coach in 1966, where he compiled a three-year record of 11-28-3. He rejoined Lombardi at Washington in 1969 and became the Redskins' head coach after Lombardi's death in 1970. Austin spent last season as an assistant with the Chicago Bears.

He and his wife, Goodrun, are guardians of three nieces, Pamela, 19, Debra, 18, and Marietta, 11.

BOB LEACH, Assistant Coach

Heading into his second season as the Football Cardinals' defensive line coach is Bob Leach, who came to the Big Red after an impressive coaching record in high school and college ranks.

THORNTON

A native of Flint, Mich., Leach was a football and baseball letter-winner at the University of Michigan and was a member of the Wolverines' NCAA baseball champions in 1953.

He began coaching at Carson City (Mich.) High School in 1954 and was 25-7 in four seasons. He returned to his alma mater, Flint Central High School, in 1958 and became head coach in 1960. Entering the college ranks, Leach became head coach at Ferris State College in Big Rapids, Mich., in 1967, inheriting a team that was 1-26-2 for the preceding five years. Leach's four-year mark was 17-15-2, including an unbeaten season in 1968.

Leach and his wife, LaVona, have five children, Kerry, 19, Linda, 18, Robert, 17, Dean, 14, and Randy 11.

BILL THORNTON, Assistant Coach

Bill (Thunder) Thornton, a rugged fullback with the Football Cardinals for five seasons, has returned to the Big Red as an assistant coach, in charge of running backs.

Born in Toledo, Ohio, Thornton was an all-Big Eight back at Nebraska and Husker co-captain in 1962. He was a fifth-round draft choice of the Cardinals in 1963 and joined the Big Red after playing in the College All-Star Game. Hampered throughout his career with a persistent knee problem, he never was able to log extensive playing time with the Cardinals. His best performance came in 1964 when he carried 59 times for 236 yards, and his best single-game effort came the following season when he ran 12 times for 128 yards against Philadelphia.

Retiring after the 1967 season, Thornton moved back to his native Toledo as head coach at Scott High School. In 1969, he returned to his alma mater and spent three years as an assistant at Nebraska under coach Bob Devaney, working with the running backs and defensive ends. While Thornton was on the staff, the Huskers won successive national championships in 1970-71.

Thornton and his wife, Leona, are the parents of two sons, Bill, Jr., 7, and Mike, 4.

LARRY WILSON, Assistant Coach

Veteran safety assumes double duties this year as both player and assistant coach. His full biography and career statistics may be found on page 28.

LANHAM

STUBER

PAUL LANHAM, Assistant Coach

Newest member of the Football Cardinals' coaching staff is Paul Lanham, who will be working with the Big Red's specialty teams.

A native of Ripley, W. Va., Lanham is a veteran of 12 seasons of college coaching, including the 1970-71 campaigns at the University of Arkansas, where he coached the tight ends and kicking game.

Lanham was a three-year letterman as a linebacker at Glenville State (W. Va.) College and earned his M.A. degree while serving on the football staff at the University of Delaware in 1960, his first year of coaching. In 1961, he moved to the University of Dayton, and one year later he joined the grid staff at Colorado State, where he spent eight years as offensive coordinator.

Lanham and his wife, Helen, are the parents of three children, Tommy, 12, Steve, 10, and Randy, 8.

EMMETT (ABE) STUBER, Personnel Director

More than 40 years of service in all phases of football lends itself readily to veteran Abe Stuber, who holds down the difficult and challenging job of finding young, talented players to keep the Football Cardinal roster filled. Stuber is truly a man on the go—traveling thousands of miles to evaluate hundreds of college players each spring and fall and checking on reports filed by other scouts.

A native of Missouri, Stuber was a star quarterback at the University of Missouri in 1924-26, teaming in the same backfield with long-time Mizzou coach and athletic director Don Faurot. After graduation, Stuber briefly tried the professional ranks as a player and player-coach at Middletown, Ohio.

Stuber's first college coaching stop was at Westminster College, Fulton, Mo., from 1928-30. In 1932, he became head coach at Southeast Missouri, turning out a lengthy list of championship teams in football, basketball and track for 15 years. He moved to Iowa State as head coach in 1947, and seven seasons later took the football reins at the University of Washington. After two years in Washington, he re-entered the pro ranks in 1956 with the Philadelphia Eagles as an assistant and joined the Green Bay Packers in 1957.

His first affiliation with the Cardinals was as an assistant coach in 1958. After staying out of football for a season, he returned to the Big Red in 1960, the team's first year in St. Louis, with talent as his primary assignment. He and

GEORGE BOONE, Assistant Personnel Director

Giving valuable assistance in the monumental talent search needed by a pro football team is George Boone, who starts his fifth season as Abe Stuber's right-hand man.

A native of Kentucky, Boone provides the big Red both coaching and scouting experience. He was a star lineman at the University of Kentucky and served the Wildcats for six additional seasons—1960-65—as an assistant coach. In 1966, he became an area scout for CEPO, an eight-team group of NFL teams that pool talent information, and two years later, joined the Cardinals.

Boone and his wife, Dedee, are the parents of five children, Dickie, 11, Georgia, 10, Gay, 9, Sally, 4, and Tina 2.

STAN WEST, Personnel Scout

A former University of Oklahoma all-America selection and a star NFL lineman for eight seasons, Stan West is a full-time personnel scout for the Football Cardinals. A native of Oklahoma, West played with the Rams, Giants and Cardinals during his NFL career.

From 1960-62, West was an assistant coach with the Minnesota Vikings. After staying out of football for two years, he joined the Big Red in 1965. He lives in Norman, Okla., with his wife, Mary Frances, and their two sons, Tom, 19, and Ted, 15.

BO BOLINGER, Personnel Scout

The Football Cardinals' personnel department boasts a second all-American from Oklahoma in Bo Bolinger, who begins his second season as a full-time scout for the Big Red. Bolinger also was a two-time all-conference selection during his Sooner playing days.

He came to the Cardinals in 1971 after two seasons as an assistant coach with Calgary in the Canadian Football League. Before going to Calgary, Bolinger had coached at Utah State, the University of New Mexico, Tulsa University and Denver University. He lives in Tempe, Ariz., with his wife, Barbara, and their three daughters, Sharon, 16, Susan, 14, and Sandra, 10.

OMOHUNDRO

DOLAN

JOHN OMOHUNDRO, Trainer

Hard-working and dedicated John Omohundro, who has the important job of caring for the health of the Big Red players, begins his second year as the Football Cardinals' trainer after four seasons as assistant trainer.

A native of Salt Lake City, the freckled Omohundro earned a degree in physical education at the University of Wyoming. He worked there as an assistant trainer and was the head trainer at the College of Southern Utah before coming to the Cardinals in 1967.

Omohundro and his wife, Martha, live in St. Louis.

TOM DOLAN, Assistant Trainer

Giving the Football Cardinals a double-dose of Wyoming alumni membership in their training department is assistant trainer Tom Dolan, who is in his second year with the Big Red.

The 24-year-old Dolan is a native of Laramie, Wyo., and was a graduate assistant trainer at Wyoming in 1970 before joining the Cardinals. He is single.

BILL SIMMONS, Equipment Manager

Caretaker of the Football Cardinals' vast equipment resources is Bill Simmons, who starts his seventh season of keeping the Big Red's gear ready, available and in good repair.

Born in Kansas City, Simmons owns bachelors and masters degrees from Northwest Missouri State College around tours of military duty in both World War II and the Korean War. He joined the Cardinals in 1966 after four years as a teacher at Ferguson Junior High School.

He and his wife, Katie, are the parents of five children, Dan, 26, Tim, 23, Sue, 19, Kathy, 18, and Pat 16.
